When this stanza has been committed to memory, the little folks are ready for the special study of June. In taking up the work of the new month, ask for its name and write it above the blank calendar. Have the children make a summary of the May weather record and place this summary with that of the other school months. Before erasing the three spring calendars, let the children make a quick study of them. Many very interesting facts will be noticeable. Call attention to the decrease of rain and wind. The pupils 71 quickly and easily see the gradual but steady increase in the amount of sunshine. The study of June may be based upon the following questions. 1 What is the name of the new month? 2 To what season does the month of June...
