Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Before the first non-Indians arrived on our shores, there were over ten million Native Americans on this continent. Within the next three centuries, over nine million of the original population had been destroyed by disease, famine, or warfare. By the early nineteenth century, governmental plans through a European mindset of racial superiority - and the seeds of manifest destiny - stirred the greed in American s hearts. One of the most tragic and regrettable periods of this disaster involved the tribes east of the Mississippi and is referred to as the Trail of Tears. Although many tribes were affected - nearly all of the five civilized tribes - the Cherokee are most associated with this calamity. Presidents Washington, Jefferson, and especially Andrew Jackson, all had the policy and strong desire to remove Native Americans - by means - West to the land beyond the Mississippi. Broken promises, treaties, and governmental lies all contributed to policies where this was accomplished. The policy came to a head during the 1820 s and 30 s in the State of Georgia (and, with some degree in Tennessee, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi). There, the Georgia state government (the last of the thirteen colonies to cede their land to the federal republic) was exceedingly aggressive in passing laws, sometimes in violation to federal policy, to claim Native American lands and forcibly remove them. All of the actions by the white government and aggressive settlers were wrapped in a public policy to educate and civilize the heathen to bring them into line with white society. The Cherokee, especially, bought into this lie that would never happen, no matter how much they tried to abandon their...
